COAST SALMON FISHERIES UNDER INVESTIGATION

The no limit season for salmon closed last Saturday, John H. Hellard, game warden, announced, and after that time persons catching more than one salmon will be arrested and dealt with by the law, says the Willits News.

The fishing season for salmon opened September 17, with a limit of three salmon. On November 14, at midnight, the limit was decreased to one fish for the remainder of the season.

During the past week Hellard has made a great cleanup on persons having more than the limit of fish in their possession.

He confiscated eight boxes of salmon, each box containing two dozen fish, at Cloverdale, consigned to H. Dowden of San Francisco. The fish were shipped from Fort Bragg by H. O. Beckley. Beckley was arrested and brought before Judge Whipple, justice of the peace at Fort Bragg, and was fined only $25.

Last Thursday afternoon, Hellard took three boxes of salmon from the train at the local depot consigned to the International Fish Company at San Francisco, sent by the International Fish Company of Fort Bragg. This case is now pending and a thorough investigation is in progress.

Hellard is also working to the end that all judges of Mendocino county set a uniform fine to levy against all violators of the fish and game laws.

HOP CROP NORMAL DESPITE DRYNESS OF YEAR

Many Ranchers Announce Intention of Plowing Out Fields Next Year

HOP STORY ....

Discouraged by the continued weakness of the hop market and the lack of prospects for any betterment of conditions in that connection, several of the hop growers of this section announce their intention to plow out their hops the coming spring and plant more remunerative crops. Among them are Ernest Ruddick, Everett Holliday and the Arthur Holliday estate. It is said that while there are some sales being made of Sacramento and Sonoma county hops, the Mendocino county product is absolutely not wanted at the present time. The reason for this condition is not given.

The crop this year of Mendocinos was about up to normal, considering the acreage, the total output being about 8,133 bales. The crop last year was 7,476, in 1922 was 13,172, in 1921 10,612 and in 1920 11,308. The output this year for the various ranches was as follows:

FARM BUREAU NOTES

Point Arena Farm Bureau Center Favors Tuberculosis Eradication Among Dairy Cattle

At a recent meeting of the Point Arena farm bureau center, definite action was taken by the large membership present favoring the control and eradication of tuberculosis among dairy cattle in Mendocino county.

The coast dairymen favor taking every step necessary to make Mendocino county a tuberculosis free area and urge the support and cooperation of all dairymen in the county.

The Point Arena farm bureau center also recommended that action should be started at once on a tuberculosis eradication campaign whereby every dairy cow in the county would be tested and in the event re-actors appear, that the owners of the deceased cows be allowed no compensation or indemnity for animals lost.

The Point Arena farm bureau center has conducted some very practical and profitable feeding tests during the last few months. Vetch and oat ensilage gives promise of developing into one of the most economical and high milk producing rations yet tried on the coast. One member who is feeding such ensilage with no grain ration reports that not only has he found it necessary to purchase additional cows to consume the feed on hand, but in changing the cows from a grain ration with no silage to a vetch and oats ensilage ration with no grain, the milk production from cows on feed has trebled in quantity.

The Point Arena farm bureau center is one of the most active farm bureau centers in the county. Their action in urging eradication of tuberculosis with no compensation for lost animals is worthy of the admiration and approval of the whole county and the proposed campaign at its completion will result in much benefit to Mendocino county from the health as well as economic standpoint.

The officers of the Point Arena farm bureau center under whose leadership all activities of the center are conducted, and who have been re-elected to serve another year are: J. D. Jensen, president; Dr. Arthur C. Huntley, secretary and treasurer; N. P. Howe, county director; Carl Scaramella, alternate county director.

GETS APPEAL DISMISSED

Atty. and Mrs. Lilburn Gibson motored to Sacramento over the last week end, where Mr. Gibson had legal business to attend to in connection with the application for change of venue of the case of Ducker vs. the Irvine Music Co. The application for change was denied to the music concern by Judge Preston and the company took an appeal. The appeal was dismissed last Monday in the appellate court, following Gibson's argument.

RANCH DEAL IS MADE IN ANDERSON VALLEY

DEMONSTRATIONS IN LANDSCAPE GARDENING

Two landscape gardening demonstrations have been arranged for by the farm advisor's office, one to be held in Anderson valley at the high school grounds, Boonville on Friday, November 28, at 3 p. m. and the other on the property of Chas. Crawford of Ukiah on Saturday, November 29, at 9:30 a. m.

Mr. H. W. Shepherd of the Division of Landscape Engineering of the University of California will be present to conduct the demonstrations. The demonstrations will consist of a talk on the general principles of landscaping farm home and public grounds. A planting key will be prepared to serve as a guide in the future planting of these and other grounds. Both will serve as demonstrations of results in these communities and will be available at all times for those desiring help in connection with their plantings.

The public is invited to be present to take advantage of both of these demonstrations.

SUTHERLAND SAXOPHONE SEXTETTE COMING SOON

Lovers of good music are due for another real treat at the State theatre on Monday, December 8, when the local playhouse will present Sutherland's Saxophone Sextette as a special added attraction. The musical organization which has delighted every audience before which they have appeared, will no doubt prove to be a strong drawing card as the leading saxophone sextettes are seldom seen or heard outside of the larger cities.

FIRE DESTROYS HOME OF H. A. RICHEY TUES. NIGHT

Fire of mysterious origin last Tuesday night almost totally destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Richey near the junction of North State street and the county farm road, the family escaping with a few articles of clothing only. The fire started at around 2 o'clock in the morning, and Mr. Richey and his wife did not awaken until the flames had gained such headway that they barely had time to get their children and get out of the house.

The fire department was not called until the building had been badly gutted and the loss amounts practically to a total one.

DEATH OF WELL KNOWN RESIDENT OF MENDOCINO

MENDOCINO, Nov. 26:—After being in failing health for several months, F. J. Mendosa, pioneer resident of this place and one of our most highly respected citizens, passed away at his home Tuesday, November 25.

When the war came, even though Mr. Mendosa was then past the prime of life and needed the assistance of his sons in conducting his store business he put aside all thoughts of his personal welfare and urged them to enlist, and at one time had six sons who were in the service of his adopted country.

Mr. Mendosa leaves to mourn his passing a devoted wife and family of seven sons and one daughter as follows: Antone, Will, Joe, John, Alex August and Frank and Mrs. F. Lewis, all of whom reside in Mendocino except Antone, who is employed in San Francisco.

SHERIFF CLEANS UP ON ILLICIT BOOZE VENDORS

Four Bootleggers Taken in Series of Raids Staged During Past Week

Illicit booze vendors in Ukiah and vicinity had considerable of a scare thrown into them the latter part of last week by reason of a series of raids staged by Sheriff R. R. Byrnes and his deputies, Joe Weselsky and Oscar Weger. As a consequence, the local market was almost depleted of "spiritual" Thanksgiving cheer and those members of the drinking fraternity who did not have a supply laid in ahead of time found themselves out of luck, for the manufacturers and vendors who were lucky enough to escape the raiding party grew amazingly cautious.

The first to fall into the officers' net was D. A. Guinnar, who has a habit of running booze into this section from Lake county, according to the sheriff Guinnar was caught once before near Hopland and paid a fine. Evidently his previous experience did not cure him of sucking eggs.

A search of Guinnar's car last Friday afternoon disclosed a suitcase containing several bottles of wine and jackass.

The ranch home of Albert Bogner, who resides in the foothills west of the forks of the state highway and the Lake county road, was next raided. Here, in a cellar concealed under a false floor in the garage, there was found 12 barrels of wine. Investigation of an opening under the house disclosed a still, which was confiscated and brought in, together with the booze.

A lonely cabin in the wilds of Cow Mountain, behind the Daut ranch, was raided Saturday morning and here a still was found and a small supply of jackass. The place belonged to Wm. Luder. He was arrested and brought to town, and on entering a plea of guilty before Judge Busch, was fined $500.

S. Colombini, well known groceryman, whose place of business near the depot has been under suspicion for a long time, was also raided and a small supply of jackass and wine were taken.

He leaves besides a widow, nine children by a former marriage of whom Mrs. J. L. Allenby of this city is one, the others residing in the East.

He was an employee of the state hospital for many years and was known and liked by a multitude of friends in and about Ukiah, all of whom join in extending sympathy to the relatives.

MARKET REPORT

The market report issued by the state and federal livestock bureau last Tuesday, is as follows:

CATTLE: Receipts of cattle for the week totaled about 3,100 as compared with 3,000 the week previous which was liberal for trade demands. The dressed market when compared to last week is steady with the bulk of the best cattle available carrying considerable weight and covering moving around $12.00-$12.50 which is somewhat out of line with the live market. The situation is between the season of grass cattle and hay-feds with most operators feeding some cattle of their own and those out purchasing material at new figures since the advent of the copious rains over the state. Good cattle over 1100 lbs. in weight were numerous with several four car strings arriving which showed costs close to $8.00, restoring top prices which has long been absent. These purchases look firm when compared to a week ago and originated in Central California and in Nevada. Several loads of medium Idaho steers cost $7.25-$7.50 here and other sizeable shipments were received either direct from packers' holdings or handled on commission. Cows are weak to lower with most concerns going slow with the bulk of the medium kinds moving around $4.00-$4.50 including a 10 car string of Oregons and Idahoes.

CALVES: Unloads of calves for the week were about 1,800 head as compared with 1,300 the week previous and under a fairly steady demand outlet was favorable for the bulk. However, at this writing the feeling was easier and most concerns had this class of material in coolers waiting for buyers. Several loads of 250-280 lb. Arizona and New Mexico calves were received on commission and some were purchased on through billings from southern stock yards at $7.00-$7.50 here with cuts on the low grade end. A four car string of medium 215 lb. calves brought $6-$6.50.

HOGS: 7,200, the bulk of arrivals of California hogs during the week were light lights which met exceedingly slow sale on account of their lack of quality. These were bid around $10.50 off cars while the demand has centered on the 180-220 lb. kinds which have been scarce and moving at $11.00. Several loads of hogs were purchased at $9.75-$10.00 which will show a cost here of $11.00 when a 12 lb. shrink is taken into consideration. Lower eastern advices at the close of the week had an easing tendency here, although receipts here were not plentiful.

SHEEP: The lamb market continues firm on good to choice full wool fed lambs with several sizeable strings of 70-75 lb. kinds costing around $13.50-$14.00 and strictly choice highly desirable pelters garnering $13.75 on long shipment. Good 71 lb. recently shorn Utahs brought $12.00 while the bulk of Californias carrying medium pelts from the Islands but rather heavy in weight brought $12.00-$12.50. There is a spread of around $2.00 per cwt. between shorn stock and full wool stock on account of the recent activity in the wool market. Choice full wool ewes are quotable at $6.00 and a few decks scored this figure.

MACK'S LOG BOOK

Marianna, Florida,
November 18, 1924

Dispatch-Democrat,
Ukiah, Calif.

Well folks, having partially recovered from my squirrel and turkey hunt, I will try and write a few lines once again. We crossed the state line into Alabama the morning of November 15 and about noon we came to the Tombigbee river, which is a beautiful stream about one-fourth mile wide. Here we were ferried across the river by four Darkies, using an old scow that was not much larger than our car. When I drove onto the ferry I did not know whether I would stop on the scow or go on to the bottom of the river, but we made it over all right. The State of Alabama is building a beautiful bridge at this crossing which will be much better than a ferry.

When we first crossed into Alabama we had to drive many miles through deep sand before we found any roads at all, but they are building roads all across the State at this time and by the last of 1925 there will be good roads from one coast to the other. The State of Alabama is a beautiful State, with lots of rivers and streams, with plenty of timber and lots of game everywhere. The land is mostly very poor and times are very hard down here. The colored people do all the work and get very little pay for it. The best wages here are paid in the sawmills and that is only $1.50 a day, and they work from six in the morning to six at night. I am speaking of Darkies for I have yet to see a white man doing any work. The Darkies have left here by the thousands and there are lots of empty Negro cabins and are going to pieces all over the country. Also a great many fields have grown up with weeds, and fences fallen down, because the Negroes will not work for 50c a day any more. I have talked to lots of Negroes and they say that it takes a mighty good man to get $1.00 a day and still they have to pay more for their living than we do in California. The States down here are away behind the rest of the U. S. They still haul logs with oxen. We saw a man hauling logs with eight oxen hitched to a log wagon and today, right here in this town we met a nicely dressed man driving two nice young oxen hitched to a light wagon, going down the street as nice as any team of horses could. Yesterday in Alabama we passed two road camps where they were using the convicts for road building. They are not treated as good here as they are in California. Here the State hires the prisoners out to contractors for a few cents a day and they have to wear stripes and have a guard standing over them with loaded guns. They work them very hard and no one cares what happens to any of them. They have a queer law here in Alabama. If you are arrested for selling liquor or almost anything else, they fine you $50 and cost, which is $51 more, or a total of $101. They allow you $2.50 a day to work out the $50 fine but they make you work 102 days to pay the cost, and they put you out on the road gang and you work from daylight to dark. We are lucky in California in regard to auto license. In Alabama the auto tax is $12.75 for a Ford car and a Ford truck is taxed $25. The State has a gasoline tax of two cents and some of the towns add two cents more on for street tax. I never heard of anything like that anywhere else. The land through Alabama is very poor and also very cheap. You can buy the land here for ten dollars an acre and they call it improved. (I don't.) The poor Negroes rent this $10 land and have to pay about $3 an acre rent. They have to buy fertilizer and put on it before it would even raise a fuss. The soil either looks like ashes or else like brick dust. I don't see how they can raise anything at all. Where we are now is a peanut country. Everywhere you look you see either goobers or sweet potatoes. This morning as we were nearing the Florida line we saw a young man making sugar cane juice and bottling it to take to town and sell at a fair that was being held there. We stopped and drank a quart of juice, the first we had tasted, and it was very good, too. Some very funny things come up as we travel through the country. Last night we camped in a little grove of pin oaks and had hardly got stopped when a young man came up to see what circus we belonged to and to ask us were we traveling. He said he had a wife and a boy six years old and lived right close there with his pap. He told us that times were hard around here, and he could not make any money farming so he was going to leave here and go to Jacksonville, Fla., and learn the barber trade. He said he noticed all the barbers drove Ford cars and drank good whiskey, so he thought he would try it too. He told us he would try and get his wife a job of some kind, if only as a field hand and maybe her and the six-year-old boy could make enough to keep them and maybe enough to keep him too. What do you think of that? I never told him I was a barber after that. Well I will tell you about Florida next week. A great many people ask me about where we came from and when I begin to tell them what a fine country California is they ask me what I left such a fine place for and all the answer I can make is that I am a fit subject for the home of the feeble minded and I will say that the farther I get away from California the more I am sure that Cal. is the only place on earth to live. I am glad I made this trip and I will be much gladder when I drive up Perkins street to our little home again, where I will be content to stay the rest of my life.

FACTS ABOUT THE TELEPHONE

In the whole world there are just twenty-five cities that have over 100,00 telephones each. Sixteen of these cities are in the United States.

Dallas, Texas, with about one telephone for every five persons, now has approximately as many telephones as the entire Republic of Mexico.

Ten American states have between them more telephones than all foreign countries combined. These ten states are New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Massachusetts, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, Iowa, Missouri and California.

There is enough telephone wire in the United States to make a net that would hold the earth like an egg in an egg cup. Besides putting one span around the equator, this net would consist of 6,584 strands joined at the South Pole and spreading gradually until they were slightly less than four miles apart at the equator.

WILLITS NEWS OF PAST WEEK

(Willits News)

The Willits Meat Market was sold Thursday and the deeds were recorded, according to E. A. Gravier. A deal has been pending for the past several weeks between L. E. Milliken of Fort Bragg and Joe Schloegel, proprietor of the Sanitary Meat Market here, for the purchase of the Willits Meat Market owned by E. A. Gravier. Schloegel stated that he was unable to make a statement regarding the active establishment or business. The coast man and the local meat market owner will take charge of the Willits Meat Market on December 1. Gravier stated that he was undecided what he will do following the sale but will continue his residence here temporarily. Gravier purchased the Willits Meat Market from Chris Hansen about ten months ago.

In a thrilling match that was witnessed by a large representation of Willits fans, Eddie Wallace lost to Tom Ray of Samoa, who proved his reputation as a fearless and dangerous opponent, in a match at Eureka last Saturday evening.

Mrs. Josephine Anderson died at her home on the Fort Bragg road early last Sunday morning about 5:30 o'clock.

She was born January 22, 1845, in Sweden and came to this country at an early age. She lived in California for 47 years, having resided in Willits for the past ten years. Nine children were born to her. Two sons are residents of Willits. They are Martin and Oscar Anderson.

Work on the construction of the dam has progressed rapidly for the past several days, it was announced. Edward Morris, engineer, stated that 122 yards of concrete were poured in six and one-half hours Wednesday and that the total height of the structure is now thirty feet.

Two youths, aged about 18, were taken into custody about three o'clock Thursday afternoon by Hy Wilkinson, night police officer, and lodged in jail on charges of stealing an automobile. Word was received Thursday to be on the lookout for a Chevrolet coupe that was stolen in Eureka and headed for the south. The youths arrested refused to give their names or answer any questions of the officer.

Humboldt county officials will come here this morning and take the pair back to Eureka for trial.

PROSPECTS IMPROVING IN LUMBER INDUSTRY

Resumption of Activities in Greenwood and Glen Blair Mills Forecast as Likely Alter First of the Year

After a period of depression extending over many months, during which the lumber market has been in such condition as to warrant little more than a "marking of time" by the operators of the coast section, it appears that there might be a slight rift in the clouds, and that conditions for the coming year may show a slight improvement, with a possibility of normalcy by the end of the 1925 season, says the Fort Bragg News.

On Monday of this week the plant of the Mendocino Lumber Company resumed operations on one side of the mill, after a shutdown of six weeks for repairs, the plant of the Goodyear Redwood Company at Greenwood, which was shut down several weeks ago, will be re-opened on January 1, and the plant of the Glen Blair Lumber Company, which shut down November 1, is expected to resume operations about February 1, following a complete overhaul of the mill.

It is safe to say that during the past year not a single mill plant in the redwood section has been operated at a profit on the business handled, but in this connection considerable stocks of the better grades of lumber have accumulated in the yards, and with a return to anything like normal conditions, markets will be availabie for these stocks and the disposal of the same will enable the lumber companies to get back to some where near an even operating basis.

Like all other redwood operators, the Union Lumber Company has disposed of only a minor portion of its total cut during the past 12 months, but in spite of this handicap, operations were restored to an over-time basis several weeks ago, and there is every indication that this working schedule will be maintained in future. With many repairs and betterments completed during the past few months, the outlook for full-time operation is now more favorable than it has been for a considerable period.

The plant of the Mendocino Lumber Company closed down during the latter part of September on account of the cracking of the cylinder on the engine that drives the mill, which necessitated the suspension of the entire plant. Immediate steps were taken at that time to replace the broken machinery, and in the meantime the mill was given a complete overhauling, but it was not believed at the time of the shutdown that it would be possible to resume operations before the new year. The repairs were completed last week, however, and the mill resumed operations on Monday of this week.

At Greenwood the plant of the Goodyear Redwood Company was closed early in October, and at that time it was announced that the suspension might be indefinite. Later developments however, by which John S. Ross, for the past 20 years superintendent of the plant of the Mendocino Lumber Company, purchased what is understood to be a controlling interest in the property of Lamont Rowlands, has resulted in active preparations being made for the re-opening of the plant about January 1 under the personal supervision of Mr. Ross.

At the time of the shutdown of the property a few weeks ago it was announced that the supply of timber on Elk creek which is tapped by the company railroad, was practically exhausted but on Greenwood creek there is yet a stand of timber sufficient to supply the mill at running capacity for the next 10 years. A railroad grade into this timber is now being completed and the rails on the Elk creek road will be taken up and relaid, so that there will be no question of a timber supply when the plant re-opens.

The Glen Blair Lumber Company closed down November 1 for repairs, with no definite date set for re-opening, but Manager E. A. Sinclair now states that if nothing unforseen occurs, the plant will resume full-time operations February 1. In the meantime the entire mill is being given a complete overhauling and placed in condition for steady operation and it is quite probable that with the re-opening early in the year, the Glen Blair plant will continue one of the regular producers of the district as it has been in the past.

At Caspar there has been practically no curtailment in the output of the Caspar Lumber Company during the dull months of the past year, aside from reduced hours which are still in effect, and there is every indication that the output of this mill will continue as in the past. The Wendling mill of the Albion Lumber Company has been closed for several weeks, and it is understood production has been to some extent curtailed at Albion, but reports are to the effect that a full-time basis is expected early in the new year.

FT. BRAGG WOMAN VICTIM OF CARELESS MOTORIST

FT. BRAGG, Nov. 26.—Mrs. Sandra Ylitalo of this city was the victim of a hit and run autoist Saturday evening and has since been confined to a bed in the Redwood Coast Hospital where she is recovering from the shock and numerous bruises.

Mrs. Ylitalo was walking along the highway about 200 feet south of the city limits when struck by the car which was driven by Richard Helm of Caspar, who then sped on and left his victim who was rendered unconscious lying in the road.

Helm was coming to this city from Caspar and had with him two Chinese passengers. He claimed at first that he stopped after striking the woman but that the Chinamen would not help him lift the woman into the car so he drove on. He later admitted that this story was not true and said he took the Cchinamen to a Chinese house and later went to the motion picture show where he was taken into custody by Marshal Barney.

On Monday, members of Helm's family visited Mrs. Ylitalo at the hospital and after their offer to pay all expenses caused by the accident she refused to swear to a complaint and that phase of the case was dropped by the officers. However, Marshal Barney has taken steps, through a communication to the Motor Vehicle Commission to have Helm's drivers license revoked.

The Spirit of Christmas

Widow Stately Recognizes the Voice of Freddie Freedman, Mischief Maker

Friend Wife Satisfied There is No Party of the Third Part

THE Widow Stately's home lay in a nook in the foothills where the sun in mornings came up from the east. At noon he poured down gently among the evergreens that clothed the hillsides of her little farm, and in the evenings, before time for sunset on the plains below, he faded out in yellow splendor over stark white peaks that guarded the widow's valley from the west.

The Widow Stately had been a widow even when she came into that little nook in the foothills with her son Frank, a winsome lad of fourteen or thereabouts. Here they had "dug in" with their little herd of heifers, and Frank had plowed the valley field for oats and potatoes, and, with the help of a carpenter, they had built the house of spruce logs where a mountain stream gurgled lullabies in the still nights.

At the end of the six years they were on their feet. The fields had extended; the herd had grown; the cream cans went down to town three times a week; there was new furniture in the log house and a lilt of song again in the widow's heart. But one new pang was hers; mother love could not quite stifle the pang when her handsome Frank rode out with the yellow-haired Allison girl from south of the ridge.

At the end of that same six years came the war. And now the Widow Stately is doubly a widow, and the Allison girl is old before her time.

Down the valley a mile or more live the Freedmans. And Freddie Freedman, at fourteen, unhappily runs to mischief, as the sparks fly upward. Was it not Freddie who left the Stately gates open at Halloween? Was it not Freddie who unbolted the reach in the widow's wagon? Who but Freddie transposed the front and rear wheels of her buckboard? Who but Freddie shot the wild ducks which she was taming, and drank cream in her dairy when she had gone to town?

And tonight, as a blanket of Christmas snow carpets the foothills and the valley, the widow returns from town with her melancholy parcels for Christmas cheer. Tonight the fire will burn on her hearth, and strange visions will wax and wane in the glow of embers; visions of the First Frank and the Second Frank, and a nightmare of horror at Vimy Ridge. The fire will die out, and Christmas will creep in, wan and cheerless and alone.

But as she drives up by the log house she sees a sturdy young figure at work in the woodshed, and—can she be dreaming?—the spruce logs at the end of the house have been cut and piled for the winter's burning. And the sturdy young figure comes out and takes her horses by the head.

"Let me put your team away while you go in and warm yourself, Mrs. Stately," said a voice. "See, I have started a fire for you."

So like Frank it seemed that she dared not break the spell. Without a word, she sank in the rocker by the fire.

But he was so long in coming that at length she went to the door. The sturdy figure was just disappearing down the road in the gray cloud of night.

"Who are you? Who are you?" she called after him.

"I am the Spirit of Christmas," he answered.

And then she knew his voice. "You're not!" she laughed. "You're Freddie Freedman!"

* * * * * * *

Friend Husband had had a busy day at the office and Friend Wife had moped all day at home.

It seemed to Friend Wife that her husband took his office duties altogether too complacently. For a time after they were married he always was home before six; now he was frequently late. And he didn't seem properly distressed over it. That was what worried her most.

So Friend Wife learned to mope a little, and to complain a little, and to wonder a good deal. And the more she moped and complained the less did Friend Husband hurry from the office. The office had become his retreat.

Moreover, there was the Party of the Third Part. Friend Wife had never seen the Party of the Third Part, but she could not doubt her existence. For a year back her husband had forgotten to kiss her when he went to the office, and when he came home. And on those rare nights when he stayed at home he read the newspaper, and yawned, and found the time heavy on his hands. So you see there must be a Party of the Third Part.

This fear gripped the little woman so deeply that one night she determined she would know the worst. Her husband had not come home to dinner; he had telephoned that he was very busy in the office. He would just slip out and have a bite. And he would likely be late—don't sit up . . . She would know the truth!

So she put on a long cloak, and a veil affair that she could draw over her face, and she went straight to his office in time to intercept him before he left for his appointment. A light shone through the frosted doors, but all inside was silent as the tomb.

"He has gone already!" she exclaimed to herself. Then she gently tried the door. It opened to her hand. Her eyes swept a vista of deserted desks. How forlorn and irksome they looked! But everyone was gone. No! There at the end sat an oldish man. It was her husband! It had never struck her before that her husband was beginning to be an oldish man. He had not heard her. He was intent over a statement with long columns of figures, and he was making calculations on a pad of paper before him.

From where she stood she could see the gray tinge about his temples, and the thinning hair on the top of his head. His brow was set in deep furrows. And suddenly Friend Wife found herself swallowing desperately at something in her throat. Suddenly she knew that there was no Party of the Third Part, and never had been a Party of the Third Part, and that she was a foolish, wicked woman.

She drew the door gently shut. In the basement of the building was a restaurant, where also was a waiter who, for a consideration, would carry a meal to her husband's office. Quickly she gave the order, for two; it was to be a modest meal, not too expensive, but healthful, and garnished with love.

The waiter carried it in and set it down on the little correspondence table beside Friend Husband's desk. And a beautiful woman sat down beside it, and held out her hands to the troubled man with the long column of figures, and smiled.

"Who are you? Who are you?" he demanded.

"I am the Spirit of Christmas," she said.

"You are more than that!" he cried. "You are my wife . . . my . . . my love!"

THE HOUSE OF CHRISTMAS

To an open house in the evening
Home shall men come,
To an older place than Eden
And a taller town than Rome.

To the end of the way of the wandering star,
To the things that cannot be and that are,
To the place where God was homeless
And all men are at home.
—G. K. Chesterton.

A TRUE PROVERB

It was nearly twelve o'clock on Christmas Eve and the magic hour that would usher in the Christmas genius was about to strike, but with Mrs. Fogarty it was never too late to mend, and a long stocking, with a needle sticking in the last stitch of the last hole, lay in her lap as she slept in her chair. No sound of bells awakened her, and when she opened her eyes upon the gifts that had replaced the emptiness of the stocking and the darning ball at its heel she could only account for the kindness of her unknown friend by ejaculating, "Well, well, Santa Claus himself must have been here, but who does he think I am, I wonder?"—C. G. Hazard.

ARE YOU GUILTY?

A FARMER carrying an express package from a big mail-order house was accosted by a local dealer.

"Why didn't you buy that bill of goods from me? I could have saved you the express, and besides you would have been patronizing a home store, which helps pay the taxes and builds up this locality."

The farmer looked at the merchant a moment and then said:

"Why don't you patronize your home paper and advertise? I read it and didn't know that you had the stuff I have here."

Print the News and Tell the Truth

By J. B. SANFORD

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov. 26.—The California Press Association met in San Francisco last week and was presided over by Governor Richardson, who has been its president for a quarter of a century. The association is composed of about 400 country newspaper men who are editors of dailies and weeklies and semi-weeklies in every county in the state. Many editors of big dailies in large cities are also members of the association. But there are no yellow journalists on the roll.

* * * * *

The object of the association is self improvement and to bring the editors and advertising men into a closer relationship. The motto is truth in the advertising and news olumns of the paper so that the reader may depend upon what is in the paper.

* * * * *

One of the subjects discussed was "Truth in the news columns of the paper." When Governor Richardson introduced the speaker to discuss this subject, he took the occasion to rap the yellow journals that persist in publishing fake news and referred to a supposed news article which was run in the monarch of yellows last week in which it gave a list of the boxing commissioners appointed by the Governor of California the day before. Governor Richardson denounced the whole story not only as a fake, but a deliberate LIE. He went on to say that no representative of this big yellow paper had consulted him in regard to the members of the boxing commission and further that no one connected with the big yellow paper was in his confidence and would never be given any "scoop."

* * * * *

The Governor further stated that he had not considered the list of applicants as yet, for the reason that the Secretary of State had not yet officially certified to the fact that the measure had become a law. Following on the heels of the Governor's statement, the men who had been mentioned as having been appointed to the commission by the Governor—each and all stated that they had never heard of the matter before, that the Governor never spoke to them about the position and that no representative of the paper publishing the fake news had ever asked them about the supposed "scoop" that was run in the news columns. So there is a concrete example of yellow journalism! How can the people ever know what is true if yellow journals continue to run fake stuff as news?

* * * * *

Yellow journals publish what they want to happen as news and hope to fool the public. The only course left for the public is not to believe anything found in a yellow paper. For the past two years the yellow press has continually misrepresented Governor Richardson and his appointees. Every few days appears an article in some yellow paper with a Sacramento headline and date line purporting to be news. The truth is the article is a fake, pure and simple, and a deliberate lie published with the intenton of misrepresenting the Governor of California.

* * * * *

Governor Richardson is a fighter and is not afraid of all the Yellow Kids in one big pile. He will expose them to the public soon and behind their skirts will be found the machine henchmen and spendthrifts who are trying to bankrupt the state. The taxpayers may thank their stars that Richardson is Governor! He is square as a die and a friend of the people at every jump in the road. And the yellow kids and the political parasites will not be able to get by with any of their rough stuff as long as Richardson is on guard. And the people will keep him on guard for another four years.

"BORDER LEGION" NEW ZANE GREY-PARAMOUNT FILM

Story of the Old West With Antonio Moreno and Helene Chadwick

The "Old West" has come back Once again in the far North country where Zane Grey wrote the novel "The Border Legion," cowboys in picturesque garb ride through the great stretches where wire fences have not come.

Once again the tinkle of spurs and the creak of saddle leather break the lazy hush of midday.

Once again, in a cloud of dust that darkens the sun, great herds of cattle move through the sagebrush wilderness with the steady rumble of a thousand hoofs.

Once again the rolling hills hear the shrill "coo-ee" of the cowboys, riding herd with one knee thrown nonchalantly over the saddle horn.

The old west was reborn for Paramount's picturization of "The Border Legion," in locations personally selected by Zane Grey. Far in the North country, a selected cast of Paramount players headed by Antonio Moreno, Helene Chadwick, Charles Ogle, Rockliffe Fellows and Gibson Gowland, brought to life the characters that lived long ago.

Approximately 100 minor players, chiefly cowboys, take part in the spectacular production, directed by William Howard.

"The Border Legion," which opens at the State theatre on next Thursday, was filmed true to life.

The story, adapted to the screen by George Hull, has to do with the activities of a band of ruthless outlaws who preyed upon settlers and gold towns in the early days of Idaho.

A replica of one of the great cattle drives of the early days is a striking sight.

Here is, perhaps, one of the greatest of all Zane Grey tales, produced as is fitting such a story, with a cast that approaches perfection. Moreno and Miss Chadwick have featured roles, and others, besides those already mentioned, include Charles Ogle, James Corey, Edward Gribbon, and Luke Cosgrave.
